SENATE DISCUSSES INCOME TAX Blast Occurs Just

G.O.P. Leaders Lose Hope For Mellon's Plan

Decision Is Postponed on Motion of North Carolina Finance Committeeman

SIMMONS BILL GAINING

Schedule Adopted by House Is Limit to Which Republicans Will Yield

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — A decision by the senate on the income tax rate in the revenue bill was postponed Monday when this section was passed over for future discussion by request of Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee.

While speakers engaged in extended debate, party leaders worked to line up their forces for the vote on this provision which divided the house on strictly party lines and is expected to be decided similarly in the senate with Republican insurgents again holding the balance of power.

Republican leaders frankly admitted Monday they had little hope of getting approval for the Mellon rates, although a vote on them will be demanded first. While they were prepared to offer amended schedules calling for higher surtax rates and lower normal rates than in the Mellon plan, Democrats stood firm and almost united for the schedule advanced by Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina, providing less of a reduction in the surtax rates and more cut in the normal rates than either the house or Mellon schedules.

DEMOCRATS ABSENT

A vote was not expected on this schedule for several days, some of the Democrats being absent from the city attending the funeral of Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, in New York.

Disposition of this provision will clear the way for early completion of the measure in the senate. Several committee amendments on which controversies are expected are yet to be disposed of, in addition to more than a score of amendments offered by various members. Little time is regarded as necessary, however, for consideration of the latter.

In addition to going up on the surtax rates if the Mellon plan is defeated, Republican leaders decided Sunday also to make a cut in the normal rates in accordance with those adopted by the house. These rates form the only income tax paid by more than four fourths of the tax payers.

G. O. P. SETS LIMIT

The rate schedule adopted by the house is declared by Republicans the limit to which they will concede from the Mellon plan. It provides for reductions in the present normal rates of 1 cent on incomes below $4,000 and 2 percent on incomes above that amount, to 2 percent on incomes below $4,000 and 5 percent on incomes above $4,000 and 6 percent on incomes above $5,000, and 6 percent on incomes above $5,000.

The normal rates proposed in the Simmons plan which has the approval not only of his fellow Democrats of the finance committee, but of some Democrats, provides for the same rates except that it fixes 4 percent as the rate on incomes below $4,000 and 5 percent on incomes above $4,000 and 6 percent on incomes above $5,000.

The surtax rates in the Longworth compromise adopted by the house provided for a flat 25 percent cut in the rates of existing law, thus starting at 14 percent on incomes of $10,000 and graduating up to 37 1/2 percent on incomes of $20,000 and over.

The Simmons surtax schedule would start at 1 percent on incomes of $10,000, graduating up by 1 percent for each additional $2,000, with occasional $4,000 jumps to 25 percent on $20,000 and over. In addition of stopping there, however, two additional brackets were provided, making the maximum 40 percent on incomes of $50,000 and over. The Mellon surtax rates would start at 1 percent on $10,000 and graduates up to a maximum of 25 percent, applicable to all incomes over $100,000.

Finishing touches were put on Appleton's gala, dress Monday for the Tenth district Rotary conference which opens Tuesday and continues through Wednesday. Approximately 1,500 are expected here from all parts of Wisconsin and northern Michigan. Col. Robert T. Timmons of Wichita, Kans., past vice president of Rotary International, was one of the first speakers to arrive. He came Monday morning accompanied by Mrs. Timmons. A large number of delegates from district points were expected during the afternoon and evening of Monday. They will register at the headquarters at Conway hotel.

College is a lane of stars and stripes and Rotary colors and emblems as the result of work during the weekend by decorators and window trimmers. The decorations also are on Oneida and Appleton streets to Chicago and Northwestern depot.

SENATE AND HOUSE PATCH BONUS BILL

Walsh Proposed Amendment to Give New Congress Time to Make Changes

Washington, D. C. — Senate and house conferees on the insurance soldiers bonus bill met Monday to iron out differences between the bills passed by the two chambers with prospects of an early agreement and report of the measure to President Coolidge.

The senate made more than a score of minor changes in the bill as passed by the house but the main provisions were kept intact. Both chambers voted for cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50, and 20-year endowment insurance policies to others.

Some discussion is expected over the amendment made by the senate on motion of Senator Walsh, Democrat of Massachusetts, postponing from Jan. 1, 1925, to July 1, 1925, the date of issuance of the insurance policies. The amendment, however, would make cash payments allowed by the bill immediately available instead of nine months after the date of enactment.

Senator Walsh explained later that his proposal was intended to allow time for a new congress to amend the bill if it became law to include an onetime giving of veterans the right to a cash payment. Democratic leaders served notice they would make a fight for such an amendment after the bill becomes law which leaders of both parties expect regardless of whether President Coolidge gives it his approval or returns it with a veto.

Tot Thrown To Safety; Father Dies

Milwaukee — Shielding his child of 3, when he saw death bearing down on him, Frank Matusines, 48 years old, a fireman, was struck by a Chicago and North Shore electric train Sunday night and received injuries from which he died within a few minutes.

The accident occurred four miles this side of Racine, at what is known as "Four mile crossing." Matusines, with his family, had been visiting and was waiting for a local train. The party started across the tracks, Matusines being in the rear, carrying Emily, his youngest child, in his arms.

It is believed that Matusines saw the train coming, but did not hurry to get out of the way, expecting it to stop. Too late he saw or realized his peril. By extending his arms he was able to hold the child out of danger, and he received the full force of the impact. Emily was thrown clear and picked up without a scratch or bruise.

COOLIDGE WIRE GIVES BACKING TO FORD'S BID

Message Says President Was "Trying to Deliver" Power Plant to Magnate

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — President Coolidge was quoted in a telegram received Monday at the senate Muscle Shoals hearing as having stated that he was trying to "deliver" Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford.

The telegram was sent to James Martin Miller of the Dearborn Independent, Ford's Newspaper, on October 12, 1923. In offering the telegram, Chairman Norris said the White House records showed that Miller had an interview with the president that day.

The telegram was addressed to "William J. Cameron or Ernest G. Liebold in care of the Independent." Liebold is Ford's secretary. The message was one of those subpoenaed by the committee Saturday. Secretary Weeks was on the stand when it was offered but declared he did not know Miller.

ASKS EXPLANATION

When the secretary took the stand, the first request put to him by Chairman Norris was for an explanation of "why Ford got over his anger toward President Coolidge and an administration after an interview at the White House." That is evidence that he is a sensible man," Mr. Weeks replied.

"That is also evidence that he had some reason for changing," Chairman Norris retorted.

The secretary said he conferred with the president before he issued a statement replying to an attack by Ford several months ago. "Before Ford interviewed the president," he said, "he called at my office with his secretary and said he had come to pay his respects and did not at that time talk business in connection with Muscle Shoals."

The telegram read: "In private interview had with President Coolidge this morning he said incidentally: 'I am friendly to Mr. Ford but wish some one would convey to him that it is my hope that Mr. Ford will not do or say anything that will make it difficult for me to deliver Muscle Shoals to him, which I am trying to do. While president didn't say so, am sure Weeks had been in consultation in view of Mr. Ford's reported interview in today's papers.'"

Scores of Men, Women and Children Gather Outside in Drizzling Rain

Wheeling, W. Va. — More than 100 miners were entombed by an explosion in the Benwood Mill mine of the Wheeling Steel corporation at Benwood near here, a few minutes after they went to work Monday morning. All entries to the mine were blocked by falls of rocks and dirt. Four hours after the blast came, volunteer rescuers hurriedly assembled had been unable to gain entrance to the underground passageways.

Little hope was entertained for the trapped miners, for the mine was on fire and choked with deadly fumes. At the mine it was reported 125 men went to work and that none had escaped. The state bureau of mines at Charleston, however, announced that its report showed only 107 men entombed.

The combined mine rescue power of the United States government and the state of West Virginia was rushed to the scene of the disaster. The state bureau of mines sent the car Holmes from Pittsburgh and was prepared to order in a car from Maryland and another from southern West Virginia. The state's rescue car, stationed at Fairmont, also was sent to the scene.

The explosion occurred about three miles back from the drift mouth. Scores of men and women and children soon gathered outside the mine. They stood in a drizzle of rain, spurring on the rescuers who were digging frantically at the mass of rock which blocked the way into the mine.

Safe Drivers Club Is Encouraged to Promote Parking Law

Indorsement was given by the Safe Drivers club of Outagamie-co at its meeting in the chamber of commerce rooms Friday evening to those officials who are endeavoring to promote traffic safety and help reduce the yearly accident total. Parking also was discussed.

Judge A. M. Spencer of municipal court was commended for his announcement that drunken drivers will be given full sentences hereafter. The county board also received praise for employing three motorcycle policemen to curb speeding on the highways.

Need of a parking ordinance for Appleton was discussed. The chief objection has been the fear that the farmers would be driven to other cities to shop if a limitation were placed on the time they could park their cars downtown.

This argument was answered by Otto Mosholder, Grand Chute farmer, who is vice president of the club. He said he believed he could obtain the names of 50 farmers who would indorse a parking ordinance for Appleton. When the farmer drives to town now he finds the curb lined with cars belonging to merchants, bankers, and others, and other machines offered for sale and can't find a place to leave his own. Most farmers can transact their business in an hour's time, and a limitation of hours therefore would not affect them, he said. This matter will be taken up further at a later meeting.

Hawes Describes Fight Against Cattle Epidemic

Former Mayor, Visiting in California, Tells of Precautions

Thousands of cattle have been destroyed in California by officials and millions of dollars are being spent to enforce quarantine and combat the dreaded hoof and mouth epidemic in that state, according to J. A. Hawes, former mayor of Appleton, who is visiting in Los Angeles.

"With the experience of the last epidemic in 1914 as a guide," he writes, "the state, county and city officials are making an earnest and heroic fight to stamp out the disease."

Mr. Hawes says that the newspapers of that state are cooperating loyally by educating the public to use every known precaution. Various other methods of publicity to enforce rigid quarantine are being used, he says. The entire county and city of Los Angeles is placarded with bulletins calling attention to the seriousness of the situation.

"All highways leading to and from Los Angeles and other counties are guarded by hundreds of quarantine officers, and no person, vehicle or freight loaded with goods of any kind is allowed to pass without rigid inspection and strictly according to law," the former mayor writes.

FUMIGATE CARS
"For instance, I have been touring this part of California during the past two weeks with a party of friends by automobile and we have been stopped on every trip in every direction and given a thorough inspection. Our car has been sprayed and fumigated inside and out with the best known fumigation and sterilizing processes."

"On our way to Ventura which is situated on the coast about 75 miles from Los Angeles we were subjected to quarantine regulations on leaving Hollywood, upon passing through Los Angeles and upon reaching Ventura."

"About midway on our trip we were delayed two and a half hours while several hundred autoists were fumigated and inspected. On the concrete highways a concrete tank has been constructed containing a bath solution about one foot deep through which every car is obliged to drive as a last precaution against spreading the infection."

"I know you will laugh when you read this, but our party laughed too and thought we were lucky not to have to swim in it. The officials were most polite and considerate and all tourists are very good natured."

Mr. Hawes says that the hoof and mouth disease started in northern and central counties and gradually extended to the Los Angeles district which has some of the largest and finest equipped dairy farms in the state.

Milk from inspected herds is being delivered to customers at 35 cents a quart and the milk is in great demand. If only one animal becomes infected, the whole herd is destroyed.

WAUPACA STUDENT IN FIRST PLACE IN DECLAMATION

Large Audience Hears High School Contestants—Manawa Orator First

Waupaca.—A large and enthusiastic audience which included delegates from the high schools of Manawa, Weyauwega, Iola and Waupaca greeted those who took part in the oratorical and declamatory contest at the high school on Friday evening. The following program was presented:

William Carew of Manawa, won first place in oratory and Harry Larson, Waupaca, was given second place. The leader in the declamatory contest was Miss Margaret Anderson of Waupaca, who second place went to Miss Gladys Hagman of Manawa.

The program included: Oratorical—"Oliver Cromwell," Walter Ward, Iola; "The Delusion of Equality," Bennie Cohen, Weyauwega; "The Call to Arms," Harry Larson, Waupaca; "The Implements of Progress," William Carew, Manawa.

Declamatory—"Just David," Gladys Hagman, Manawa; "Conqueror," Marion Cleaves, Iola; "A Pleasant Half Hour on the Beach," Margaret Anderson, Waupaca; "Quo Vadis," Helen House, Weyauwega.

The judges were: G. D. Watson, principal of Stevens Point, high school; A. J. Herrick of Stevens Point, and Miss Ione Halverson of New London high school.

This was the first meeting of this kind to be held between these schools and such meetings no doubt will be continued as a great deal of interest was shown.

BOARD SUMMONED

A meeting of more than usual interest to Waupaca people is the special session of the county board to be held at the courthouse at Waupaca May 5. At that time the board will take action on the matter of rescheduling the decision of the county board of 1923 regarding the building of a county normal school building at New London and the appropriation of money for the same. There has been considerable agitation to do away with the county normal school.

Mrs. Gurley, Miss Eggers and Miss Fountain of the high school faculty acted as judges in the declamatory contest at Ogdensburg Monday night.

Miss Nita Benedek of the Waupaca high school class of 1920, was elected to the Sigma Nu, an honorary scholastic fraternity. She was one of four seniors to be thus honored. She also was named for the scholarship to the University of Wisconsin awarded by the Carroll college faculty to one member of the senior class each year.

G. E. Watson, Point, was elected city superintendent of the Waupaca schools at the meeting of the board of education on April 21. Ten new teachers will be hired for the grades and high school next year. That number of the present corps of teachers does not expect to return to Waupaca another year.

The last basketball game of the season played Friday night between the U. S. Tractor Team of Menasha and the local Legion team, resulted in a victory for the Waupaca quintet, 14 to 12.

ARRANGE PLAY

The senior class play, "Clarence," will be presented at the Palace theater on Tuesday evening, May 6, under the direction of Miss Elsie Edwards of the English department. The following cast has been selected: Mrs. Martin, Wheeler's secretary; Louise Sill, Mr. Wheeler, business man of middle age; Harry Larson, Mrs. Wheeler, middle aged, aristocratic; Sheridah Martin, Bobby Wheeler, young son; Charles Lee, Cora Wheeler, frivolous young daughter; Jean LeFevre, Violet, Cora's servant; Genevieve, Hanson; Clarence, young returned private; Cecil Sparrow; Della, young Irish maid; Margaret Anderson; Dinwiddie, the Wheeler butler; Donald Rasmussen; Hubert Stem, suitor to Violet; George Colburn.

Of particular interest to wrestling fans, will be the announcement that Hugh Nichols of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, who defeated Ole Olson of Oshkosh, here last Saturday evening, will meet Sammy Sandow, the Pacific coast lightweight champion here on Friday evening, May 2. Nichols is fast becoming a local favorite and his match with Sandow will arouse a great deal of interest among Waupaca fans. The semi-weekly will be between two wrestlers from the Lawrence college wrestling team.

MUST HAVE CUSTOMS CARD ON PARCELS TO GERMANY

Announcement of a postal ruling that all parcel post packages mailed to Germany must have customs declarations securely attached to the parcels before they will be accepted in Germany has not had the desired effect for it is reported that more than 10 per cent of the parcels received in Germany show irregularities. Many packages have only one customs declaration attached, or the customs declarations are incompletely filled out. Most of the irregularities are attributed to failure to fasten the customs declaration securely to the parcels. Use of strong twine is advised by the Appleton postoffice.

Special to Post-Crescent
Black Creek—Outrigger cow still has an occasional freak in its anatomy. The latest one appeared at the Andrew Becker farm, on rural route one, when a cow gave birth last week to a calf which had two heads and six legs. The animal lived only a few days. Many people came to the farm to see it.

SPANISH STUDENTS WILL GIVE PLAY

At 7 o'clock Tuesday evening the students in Spanish classes at Lawrence college will present an entertainment of songs, folk dances and a play, "La Noche de San Juan," which means "The Work" in room 42 of Main hall. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used to cover cost of production.

A group of Spanish songs will be sung by R. Havens, H. Case, J. Wilcox, O. Hoffmann, A. Carrington, Olive Hamar, Juanita Bartelson, Leola Robertson, Gladys Robertson, and Dorothy Palmer. Florence Gray is to sing a solo, "La Noche de San Juan," which means "The Work" in room 42 of Main hall. The proceeds of the entertainment will be used to cover cost of production.

The cast of the play includes: Nina, Mary Kanouse; Citano, Palmer McConnell; Mendigo, John Wilcox; Mujer, Bessie Clausen; Mujer, Muriel Hammond; Hombre, Carl Hagen; Hombre, Corliss Sweet. The scene is before a house facing a cathedral where worshippers have entered. A gypsy appears, disconsolate because rewards for his dancing have been poor and he sees himself reduced to work. While he meditates, trying to think how he can avoid working, a girl comes out of the house to arrange the vines at her window. Seeing the gypsy, she asks him to trim them and he, charmed with her grace and beauty, agrees to do so. This finished, he does other little tasks for her and while doing so, they chat pleasantly propounding riddles. As a reward for his guessing the last one, the girl agrees to dance with the gypsy. As the people come from the church they admire the work of the gypsy and seek his services.

Simple Treatment Cures Hoof And Mouth Disease

Charles De Young, locktender on Johnston, one of the few men of Appleton or Outagamie who has had experience with hoof and mouth disease on which the government is now spending millions of dollars in California.

When a young man in Holland he assisted in treating hundreds of cases of the disease which made its appearance annually. The disease is extremely contagious and an animal seldom lives more than a few days unless given prompt treatment.

The foot and mouth disease he said is to be due to a small insect imbedded in a shell found in the green scum that covers stagnant water. The cattle wade into this stagnant water to protect themselves from flies and these insects are imbedded between the toes of their hoofs.

The hoof becomes sore and the disease is carried to the mouth by the animal licking the hoof. Mr. De Young said he never knew of a case where the disease started in the mouth even if the cattle drank of the water. Cattle can also contract the disease during a wet season by pasturing in a field of young clover.

"The only treatment we gave the hoof," said Mr. DeYoung, "was brown tar and oakum, and for the mouth we gave the afflicted animals a wash of three parts of black molasses and one quart of brown tar well cooked."

The members also voted to have new crosses erected on each of the two steeples, as those now in use have been damaged or broken off partially by the storms. The crosses are about 10 feet high.

Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels—the calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

General Mixed Paint

The most important part of any paint is the liquid, or the oil. No matter what the pigment might be, paint will not wear unless it has the proper liquid to hold it to the surface.

No one has ever found a better wearing liquid than linseed oil. Up to this time they have never found a substitute of any practical value.

In our paints we use only the best tested linseed oils, in white paint we use only a pure bleached linseed oil, insuring you a perfect white paint. In the colors we use the pure unbleached linseed oil.

For this reason General Paint will wear as long as paint can wear.

Teeth are Jewels

Make them glisten
Each day remove the dingy film.

You can buy no pearls at any price to compare with pretty teeth. Then why not fight the film on teeth, as millions are doing now? Make this free test, and see what new beauty comes.

Remove the cloud

Most teeth are clouded by a film that viscous film you feel. It clings and stays, because no ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it.

Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy spots. That is what makes teeth unsightly.

Film also causes most tooth troubles. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Such troubles are almost universal among people who don't fight film.

That is why dental science has been seeking film combatants. Two have now been found. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

COMMON PEOPLE VERY CLEVER

A funny thing happened in Brooklyn, N. Y. During a traffic tieup a negro teamster overheard the conversation of two men standing on the sidewalk. The negro spoke up: "Pahdon me, suh, ahn't you—all the gentleman. Mr. Vice President Peter Hamilton, o' the Lawyers' Mortgage Company, what broadcasts through WEAF ev'ry Monday evenin'?" Mr. Hamilton said, "Yes, I am."

"Well, suh," the teamster declared. "Ah just want to say Ah have enjoyed your financial talks on mah crystal set." Recently we overheard the conversation of a group of machinists during their noon lunch hour. Between mouthfuls of pie and sandwiches they were discussing national politics which a sanity and instinctive comprehension that was little short of amazing. The talk veered to science. A tool maker gave a brief and intelligent explanation of the Einstein theory. They drifted on into astronomy and two of them, queried as to their rather astounding knowledge of the subject, explained it was their hobby. These machinists evidently read scientific journals and books during spare time.

On the street car frequently notice men, who outwardly often may seem mediocre, reading "headache stuff"—philosophy, mysticism, biology, technical science, theories of business practice. Average intelligence is advancing swiftly. This has been revealed by the tremendous public interest in history as made interesting by H. G. Wells and Van Loon, and the popularization of science by Thompson and others. And yet our generation is a collection of morons compared with the youngsters now growing up—a race of scientists, indicating their future by amazing technical understanding of radio. Such words as "calories," "electrons" and "bacteria" have come into common use and are understood by the rank and file. The editor or politician who underestimates average intelligence is riding for a fall. Schools, newspapers and libraries are getting in their work. And best of all, the public is beginning to develop a sixth sense that recognizes "bunk" at sight.

CODE OF BUSINESS ETHICS

At the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Cleveland, May 6 to 8, the Committee on Business Ethics will submit for consideration and approval a report on "Principles of Business Conduct." The business code of ethics, as constructed, consists of fifteen brief guides of conduct.

In the past few years it has been the fashion for associations, clubs and professional and commercial groups to adopt regular platforms, as these sets of laws might be called, specifying certain standards for general observance by members. One whole number of a recent publication of the American Academy of Political and Social Science was devoted to ethics of many organizations.

Offhand, it would seem that business and professional men would need no special codes. Their training and interest, their pride in their work, would apparently fix standards to which they would attempt to live and work. But there is no question that a declaration of principles is a constant reminder not only of the regular rules of conduct, but it also, keeps aloft the best ideals.

Say that a code of ethics is adopted by an association. It thereby becomes the standard for all the members, and it becomes a force through the desire of each member to deserve the respect of his colleagues. Each member has in mind that his fellows expect him to live up to these rules and to strain to rise to the stated ideals.

Business is an immediate result of necessity and in its perfect stage it is a development of imagination. That commerce is a necessity is illustrated by the primitive custom of barter. Men supply one another's needs; they trade. Imagination and ingenuity build up great institutions. Most of the guides in the proposed code of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States are variations of this one principle.

The guide that is most approved is this—"corporate forms do not absolve from or alter the moral obligations of individuals. Responsibilities will be as courageously and conscientiously discharged by those acting in representative capacities as when acting for themselves." After all, this is the simplest kind of ethics. The individual retains his personal moral responsibility in all circumstances.

QUEST OF EASY MONEY

Many of our national troubles and problems are due to what President Coolidge in his New York address to the Associated Press, called the "quest of easy money." This desire to get rich quick has been the most striking feature of the era of invention and industrialism, and there is as yet no sign that it is subsiding.

Great fortunes have been made quickly by intelligence or shrewdness. Every important invention has made several or many persons rich quickly. Promoters have speedily and almost magically accumulated vast wealth for themselves and their associates by ingenious methods. Natural raw materials, such as oil, have flooded thousands with gold. The growth of large corporations has brought wealth to executives rising from the ranks. New opportunities, little and big, have made thousands well to do. Luck has dropped opulence on many. Salaries and wages have been large enough, due to wonderful prosperity, to enable luxurious living.

It is plain that the foregoing combination of exceptionally favorable conditions, the results of invention and industrialism and of the magnitude of commerce, has cultivated an abnormal mental and moral state with regard to money. Everybody yearns to get rich quick, and it is so easy to obtain money that money is as plentiful as potential and has become our chief objective.

This is an epoch of idolatry of the golden coin. Our lofty religious principles and high commercial and civic ideals are subordinate to the attraction of affluence. It matters not how we get rich. Once we have fortune we have power, and wealth invests us with respectability which blots out the breaches of honor with which we rose to financial independence.

A large percentage of the people is living in greater ease than did the millionaires of a decade ago. All families wish to rival and finally excel those which are flourishing. Money is the substance which buys luxury, position and power. All or nearly all would be immensely rich.

There are only two means of rectifying this serious national fault. Either we must become more conservative and practice self-discipline, or moral degeneration will exact severe penalty. We must either use our opportunities and blessings honorably and sensibly, or suffer the same consequences as did the great empires of ancient history, and fall into decay.

TODAY'S POEM

By Berton Braley

TO A REVOLUTIONIST

You hate all "trivial conventions."
You want to be a Soul That's Free?
I don't object to your intentions.
Your freedom's quite all right with me.
For Revolution you may ho!er,
And shriek against all kinds of laws.
But sporting such a dirty collar
Does not, that I see, aid your cause.
Whatever be your bad obsession,
Free love, free food, free life, free beer:
You'd make a pleasant impression
If you would wash behind the ears.
Cast off each economic fetter,
Don't be to Capital a slave.
But that stuff would get over better
If now and then you had a share.
For cleanliness remains a virtue
Which your opinions cannot jar.
And soap and water will not hurt you are,
No matter how advanced you are,
And free of this little duty
Would plant this thought within your brain,
A dirty collar isn't pretty
And finger-nails are better clean!

EARLY SYMPTOMS OF CANCER OF STOMACH

Cancer is a group of diseases, not a specific disease. Skin cancer (epithelioma) is a fairly benign disease—a patient may have it for 10 years before he notices it at all, such as a wart, a little spot on the lip, or more typically a little pimple on the cheek an inch below the eye. Then it may increase in size and go on for several more years, unless removed when the suspicion is first aroused. Then there is sarcoma, the most rapidly fatal kind of cancer, which may develop in a baby, a child or a person of any age and bring death in a few months. Finally there is the most common type of cancer, occurring at or beyond middle age, affecting internal organs, and proving fatal, unless surgically removed, in from one to three years.

One in every eight women and one in every 12 men, who die over the middle age die from cancer. Thus the disease is an everyday occurrence, and one which is quite likely to come to you as to anyone else. Cancer is not hereditary, and it is not contagious, so there is no use in worrying about those few points. There is no good reason to think injuries cause cancer, other than coincidence, but there is good and sufficient reason to believe prolonged irritation favors the development of cancer, as is seen in pipe smokers' cancer of the lip, cigar smokers' cancer of the tongue or throat, cancer of the stomach, occurring in the scar or base of a healed stomach ulcer, and cancer of the womb occurring most frequently in mothers of many children—in the scars of the lacerations which are produced at childbirth.

Suggestive signs of cancer of the stomach are: "Dyspepsia" appearing in a person of middle age who has been healthy heretofore. Loss of weight. Vomiting without ascertainable cause. Pain in or about the region of the stomach following meals.

Later symptoms are: Anemia, perhaps a lump palpable in the upper abdomen, vomiting of "coffee ground" material or blood. Difficulty in swallowing. Distaste for meat. Loss in strength.

The diagnosis is made positive by examination of the gastric juice after a test meal. Of course, the only treatment that offers any chance of saving life is early operation. "Dyspepsia" and loss of weight, with persistent symptoms pointing to the stomach, are in themselves ample evidence of the need of any exploratory operation when they develop in a person of middle age previously well.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Fear of Fattening

To settle an argument will you please answer the following questions: (1) Is hot water fattening, if two or more cups are taken at meal time? (2) I eat sometimes four apples a day—are they fattening? How many calories in a medium size apple? (3) My girl friend is on a diet, but sometimes she gets a spell and overeats. Then she takes lukewarm water with mustard in it, to empty her stomach. Yet she seems well and looks well. Is it harmful? (R. G. T.)

Answer.—(1) No. (2) Average apple yields 80 calories, so four would represent about the same nutritive value as you would get from four eggs or from four small potatoes, or from four slices of bread, or from a pint of fresh milk or from a quart of buttermilk. (3) Not if she is overnourished.

May Eat, May Not Eat

Are olives and the different varieties of nuts, especially peanuts and peanut butter, proper foods for diabetic patients? (F. C.)
Answer.—So far as I know, any and all kinds of foods which are proper for normal individuals are proper for diabetic patients, provided, the amount taken is within the limits of the patient's tolerance. Olives belong in the 5 per cent group of foods (they contain less than 5 per cent of carbohydrate material); peanuts, however, contain about 25 per cent of carbohydrate, and therefore a diabetic patient could take very little peanut butter or peanut butter without exceeding his tolerance. Butternuts are in the 5 per cent class along with cucumbers, sauerkraut, mushrooms, tomatoes, string beans and other succulent morsels. Brazil nuts, oranges, peaches, lemons, pineapples, are examples of 10 per cent foods. Hickory nuts, walnuts, pecans, filbert, apples, pears, cherries, currants, green peas, parsnips, are 15 per cent foods. Baked beans, bananas, macaroni, almonds, potatoes are 20 per cent foods.

The Rev. F. T. Rone, new pastor of the Congregational church, occupied the pulpit the day previous for the first time.

TEN YEARS AGO

Monday, April 27, 1914.

SEEN, HEARD and IMAGINED

---that's all there is to life

Hello, people. Start now to lay in a good supply of fast stories. No begging allowed officially, however, until after June 1.

Mantowoc-co defeated the road bond issue, and to show that its feelings have not been hurt, Mantowoc's "Main Street" admits that it always did like gravel roads better when the weather is good. Motorists might adopt the same philosophy with respect to McCarty's crossing.

Up at Rhinelander they beat a bond issue for pure water by two to one vote. Now watch all the people who will want to move to Rhinelander.

INTELLIGENCE TESTS

"Dangerous Curves Ahead."
"Arterial Highway—Stop."
"Speed Limit—15 Miles."
"Keep to the Right."

AND YET, ISN'T IT SURPRISING HOW MANY COLLEGE GRADUATES FALL DOWN ON THOSE TESTS?

When our children are grandads, we presume they'll read something like this in the early history of Appleton: "Alderman Les Hansen was famed for two important duties when the common council met. It was he who always arose at the tap of the gavel by the mayor to move that the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting be dispensed with. And to him belonged the duty of popping up just at the right time to say, 'Your honor, I move we now adjourn.'"

It certainly is tough, when the handshaking arms of two supervisors from the same town get crimped up at the same time as they did at the last county board meeting.

Those two balloonists who were buffed by storms and forced to land at Navarino—would you say they were weather beaten?

USES FOR MUD

1. To have automobiles get stuck in.
2. To plaster on ladies' faces.
3. To throw in political campaigns.
4. To nickname yourself with when your wife sees you talking with a pretty girl.

The county speedup at a public hearing Friday could not tell what was the cargo of a certain car that was wrecked in an accident. That's funny, wouldn't his speedometer indicate what the cargo was?

READY TO BATTLE TO RETAIN SCHOOL

New London Will Put up Fight to Have Waupaca-co Erect Building

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London—New London is expected to put up a stiff fight when the Waupaca-co board meets at Waupaca May 5, to retain the county normal school here and have the county go through with its plans to erect a new building.

Board members, city officials and others feel that the project has gone too far now for the board to rescind its action to build the school, which will cost about $40,000. The city offered the land free to the county if the school were built here, and all the expectation that the matter was all settled.

Objection has been raised by Waupaca, Manawa and other cities because New London was chosen as the location, declaring that that city was at an extreme end of the county and in a city partially in another county. The spring election brought a shake-up in the county board, resulting in removal of a number of advocates of the normal school.

CALL OF CANYON BY ZANE GREY IS SETTING BOOK PAGE

Popularity of Story Is Increased
When It Is Shown in Motion Pictures

Movies always have an effect upon the popularity of books at the library, and since "The Call of the Canyon" has been shown at a local theater, the book has risen in popularity. But in all fairness it must be said that Zane Grey's book is unusual and different from the ordinary "western" book and it is pleasing a great many people.

Edna Ferber's novel "So Big," still is popular. This book has had an unusual record and is probably one of the most steadily called for books in circulation.

People have expressed a preference for "The Out Trail" by Mary Roberts Rinehart, which is a book of life in the open on rough roads and trails. Now that summer and camping time is drawing near it is not unusual that books of this sort are much in demand.

Kate Douglas Wiggin, author of the beloved "Rebecca of Sunny Brook Farm," has a book in "My Garden of Memory," in the library that is much in demand. The children have wanted to read "The Great West" by Theodore Roosevelt and the Harper series of machinery and electricity books.

Detective stories are always popular with library patrons and especially those of Natalie Sumner Lincoln, who writes the kind of books that keep you guessing until the final chapter. Her latest achievement is "The Thirteenth Letter," which tells of a theft and murder that follow in the train of a great jewel smuggled from Russia. It is a story of mystery and carrying its sinister influence all the way to America, where the events of the novel unfold.

On a stormy night Marion Ward, a nurse, attends a case at the country house of Paul Abbott, her patient. Alone with her patient, after the doctor has gone, she is startled by the midnight visit of Betty Carter, Paul's fiancée, accompanied by a clergyman. The mystery grows as she overhears the marriage service read in the sick man's room, followed by the immediate departure of Betty and the clergyman. Marion, bending over the patient's bed, is dumbfounded to see a stranger lying there. Yet the next things she knows it is morning and she finds herself emerging from unconsciousness and stretched on the floor. On the bed is Paul Abbott, stabbed in the back. All this happens in the first chapter, and the authoress takes the rest of the story to tell of the unfolding of the mystery, which takes on a new aspect, and becomes more baffling with each chapter.

Traction Company Has Port Of Missing Articles

Finding is not always keeping if the finder happens to be a street car conductor. There is a rule of the Wisconsin Traction, Light, Heat and Power company which governs the finding of articles left on street cars. At the end of each day the motor-man turns in all articles found on his car. If they are of value, the articles are turned over to the cashier for safekeeping, otherwise they rest on a shelf until the owner claims them. Lots of things have been found on the street cars that are operated between Appleton, Neenah and Kaukauna. If they are not called for within 30 days, they are turned over to the person who found them.

The things that are replying on the shelf at present include mittens, in pairs or more often just one, a child's hat, a pair of overalls, books and magazines, three pairs of socks, a bundle of underwear, curtain rods, rosaries, a prayer book, and rubbers and umbrellas.

On rainy days and in winter is when rubbers and umbrellas are collected by the score. People board the car, put their umbrella beside them and when they leave they forget to take them along. An article increases ten times in value in a person's mind after he has lost it and so most people describe lost articles to be worth much and often declare that they must have left it on the street car whether they have or not.

An incident that illustrates this is the case of a woman who declared that she left a package on the street car and was quite excited when told that no such article had been turned in. She made two or three telephone calls and then came down to make sure that the article was not there. Try to imagine what the man who left the three pair of socks on the street car thought when he got home. Or maybe it was his wife who left them there which usually makes matters worse, even in the best of families.

FORGETFUL SHOPPERS
School books frequently are found on the cars. Rosaries and prayer books are other items that are found with frequency by motormen. Any number of unopened packages are found, often left on the car by shoppers. All articles have tags attached to tell on what cars they were found and by what motormen. If the owner puts in no claim after 30 days the package is given to the man who found it, but it is safe to assume that no valuable packages are ever left uncalled for. But the socks are still at the traction company, so maybe the man didn't need them anyway or maybe they were old ones that his wife intended to darn and so is glad she lost them.

TWO SONGS IN RACE FOR GREATEST POPULARITY

"A Smile Will Go a Long Long Way" and "Land of My Sunset Dreams" are the two most popular songs in Appleton, and while it is hard to say one is more popular than the other, yet "A Smile Will Go a Long Long Way" has the edge because it has been popular for a much longer time than "Land of My Sunset Dreams."

There are a few other outstanding numbers because of the great popularity of these two songs, but others that have had especially good sales are "From One 'Till Two," "Twilight Rose," and "Whose Izzy Is He." Other popular pieces include: Meyer-Seeger—Back In Hackensack, I Miss You Most at Dawning, Twilight, and Rose, A Smile Will Go a Long Long Way, Land of My Sunset Dreams.

Irving Music Co.—Land of My Sunset Dreams, From One 'Till Two, I'm Going South, A Smile Will Go a Long Long Way, The One I Love Belongs to Someone Else.

Irving Zuehlke—Land of My Sunset Dreams, Pal of My Dreams, A Smile Will Go a Long Long Way, Whose Izzy Is He, Hula Lou.

John Emerson, the leading character in the play, finds himself quarantined with his divorced wife in his mother-in-law's home but a few hours after his remarriage to his stenographer. His former wife is unaware of the fact that he has wed again, and pleads with him to "try it again." Emerson is willing enough, but the fact that he has a wife presents an insurmountable obstacle.

As he is trying to figure a way out of the embarrassing situation his bride bursts into the house, having eluded the guards stationed by the health authorities. This is the starting point of a series of highly humorous episodes. John Emerson finds himself quarantined for an indefinite time in a house with his life and ex-wife, having the former and loving the latter. The outcome of this strange situation furnishes many laughs.

ON THE SCREEN

"THE WOMAN GAME" SHOWS ONE HALF OF THE WORLD HOW THE OTHER HALF LIVES

Elaine Hammerstein, is to be seen in "The Woman Game" at the New Bijou Theater today and Tuesday.

Miss Hammerstein is a very popular star and there are many motion picture devotees who await her releases with interest. The story is based upon the idea that it is no more than fair that a woman should be entitled to pursue the same tactics in her business in life—which is the matrimonial game—as the man does in his and shows how the wheels go round in so-called "high society." It is said to be a particularly forceful arrangement of social conditions which are admittedly "all wrong" but are, nevertheless, in general practice.

The Woman Game of the title is merely the game, as old as life itself, which women are always playing in their own behavior or in that of those they love. The interest in the picture lies in its showing up this game so that all those who are playing it unconsciously are able to understand it—and its complete justification.

"Why Men Leave Home," a First National picture, produced by John M. Stahl, which is now the feature at the Elkie Theater, contains one of the most unusual and unique situations ever conceived in the brain of a writer. The credit for it goes to Avery Hopwood, the author of this play, which ran for more than a year on Broadway.

Schools of Appleton have been asked to join in the observance of National Narcotic week. The week set aside for educating people as to the menace of the narcotic industry was the week beginning April 21 and ending Saturday, but because of the lateness of the announcement, schools are urged to devote some time, no matter when, to bringing out the facts about habit forming drugs.

SO BIG

By Edna Ferber

Until he was almost ten the name stuck to him. He had literally to fight his way free of the name. So Big (of fond and infantile derivation) had been condensed into So-big. And So-big DeJong, in all its consonantal disharmony, he had remained until he was a ten-year old school-boy in that incredibly Dutch district southwest of Chicago known first as New Holland and later as High Prairie. At ten, by dint of fists, teeth, copper-toed boots, and temper, he earned the right to be called by his real name, Dirk DeJong. And then, of course, the nickname boomed up and had to be subdued in a brief and bitter skirmish. His mother, with whom the name had originated, was the worst offender. When she lapsed he did not, naturally, use schoolyard tactics on her. But he sulked and glowered portentously and refused to answer, though her tone, when she called him So Big, would have melted the heart of any but that natural savage, a boy of ten.

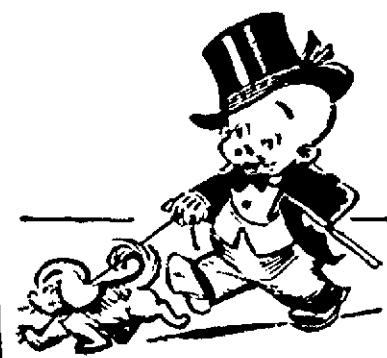

The nickname had sprung from the early and idiotic question invariably put to babies and answered by them, with infinite patience, through the years of their infancy.

Selma DeJong, darting expertly about her kitchen, from washtub to baking board, from stove to table, or if at work in the fields of the truck farm, straightening the numbed back for a moment's respite from the close rows of carrots, turnips, spinach, or beans over which she was labouring, would wipe the sweat beads from nose and forehead with a quick duck of her head in the crook of her bent arm. Those great fine dark eyes of hers would regard the child perched impermanently on a little heap of empty potato sacks, one of which comprised his costume. He was constantly detaching himself from the parent sack heap to dig and turn in the rich warm black loam of the truck garden. Selma DeJong had little time for the expression of affection. The work was always hot at her heels. You saw a young woman in a blue calico dress, faded and earth-crusted. Between her eyes was a driven look as of one who walks always a little ahead of herself in her haste. Her dark abundant hair was skewered into a utilitarian bun from which soft loops and strands were constantly escaping, to be pushed back by that same hurried ducking gesture of head and bent arm. Her hands, for such use, were usually too crusted and ingrained with the soil into which she was delving. You saw a child of perhaps two years, dirt-streaked, sunburned, and generally otherwise defaced by those bumps, bites, scratches, and contusions that are the constant lot of the farm child of a mother hurried by work. Yet, in that moment, as the woman looked at the child there in the warm moist spring of the Illinois prairie land, or in the cluttered kitchen of the farmhouse, there quivered and vibrated between them and all about them an aura, a glow, that imparted to them and their surroundings a mystery, a beauty, a radiance.

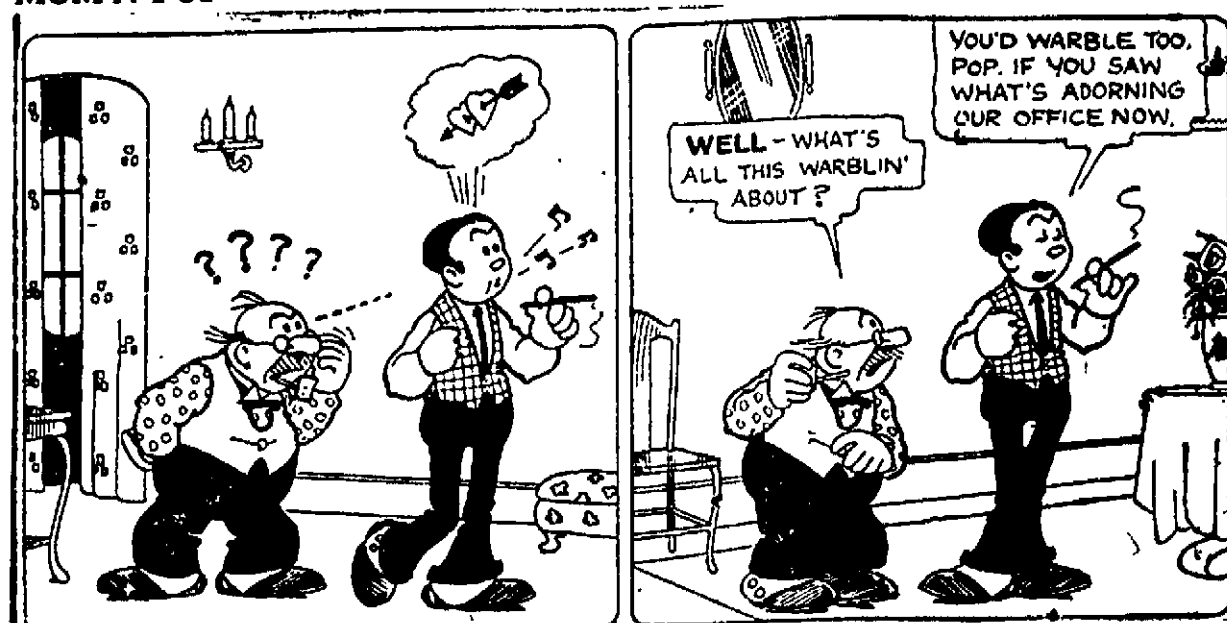

"How big is he?" Selma would demand, senselessly. "How big is my man?" The child would momentarily cease to poke blump fingers into the rich black loam. He would smile a cum my though slightly weary smile and stretch wide his arms. She, too, would open her tired arms wide. Then they would say in a duet, his mouth a puckered pink petal, hers quivering with tenderness and certain amusement, "So-o-o big!" with the voice soaring on the prolonged vowel and dropping suddenly with the second word. Part of the game. The child became so habituated to this question that sometimes, if Selma happened to glance round at him suddenly in the midst of her task, he would take his cue about the familiar question before him and would answer his "So-o-o big" rather absently, in dutiful solo. Then he would throw back his head and laugh a triumphant laugh, his open mouth a coral orifice. She would run to him, and scoop down upon him, and bury her flushed face in the warm moist creases of his neck, and make as

Record Crowd Watches Yankees Beat Connie Mack's Athletes, 11-2

Giants Come from Behind in Brooklyn to Win, 9 to 5, After Fournier Brings in Five Robin Scores.

The season's biggest baseball crowd—55,000 Sunday saw the Yankees win their seventh consecutive victory and stop the rush of Connie Mack's Athletics, 11 to 2. The world's champions landed in second place, a half game behind Detroit.

In Brooklyn the Giants came from behind to win, 9 to 5, after Fournier brought in five Robin scores with 2 home runs. The victory gave McGraw's team a full game lead over Chicago.

Detroit had a hard time to retain its American league lead. Ty Cobb stole home for the second time this season and in the ninth, with the bases filled.

Pratt wheeled Lyons for a pass and the run that gave the Tigers a 4 to 3 victory over Chicago.

The first triple play of the major league season, was executed by the Boston Americans in a loose play game with Washington which the latter won, 9 to 6. J. Harris, Red Sox first baseman, speared a line drive, threw to Lee to retire Lelohed off second and, receiving the return, caught S. Harris off first.

FOUR HOMERS FEATURE TILT

Four homers featured Cleveland's 10 to 9 triumph over the Browns. Ken Williams made his first. Robinson and MacManus of the Browns and Speaker of the Indians drove out the other three.

The relief pitchers of St. Louis were better than those of Cincinnati after both teams and Pfeffer were driven from the game early. The Reds could not hold a four-run lead and the Cards finally won 6 to 4.

Grantham of Chicago leads the national league hitters Monday with an average of .432, followed by Hornsby of the Cardinals, .404; Pinell of the Reds, .389; Wheat of Brooklyn, .382, and Blades of the Cards, .361. Tied for man tops the American league with .513, leading a host of Detroit, .455; Clarke, .438, and Myatt, .423, both of Cleveland, and Boone of Boston, .400.

Hornsby leads the major leagues with four homers. Ruth of the Yankees, Fournier of the Robins, MacManus of the Browns and Grantham have 3.

QUESTIONS

1. What is construed as a wild pitch?
2. If the pitcher strikes out the batter, but he reaches first base because of a wild pitch or failure on the part of the catcher to hold the ball, is he credited with a strikeout?
3. Player hits safely and reaches third base on his drive but fails to touch second and is called out. How is the hit scored?

ANSWERS

1. A wild pitch is a legally delivered ball, so high, low or wide of the plate that the catcher is unable to stop it, and thereby permits a batsman to reach first or a runner to advance.
2. The pitcher is credited with a strikeout, regardless of whether or not the batsman is retired.
3. Batsman merely is credited with a single since technically he never reached second, due to his failure to touch that base.

Spear Takes First Money In Pin Meet

Final results of the Elks sweepstakes bowling tournament brought no change from Friday's scores, and C. Spear, W. Williams and George Jimos walked off with the three high marks and the money. Spear rolled 1015 for first place, which brought him a check for $8. Williams copped $7 for hitting second with 994 as his aggregate, and Jimos took third place and $5 when he topped 990 pins.

Beginning Monday a headpin tournament will start on the Elks alleys, which will be open to all bowlers of the city. Entrants will be permitted to roll as often as they like, at $1 per match, and each match will consist of three games, the highest total to count.

This is one of the last events of the season here, and a large entry list is in prospect.

BREACH BETWEEN LYNCH AND MEAD IS WIDENING

Eddie Mead and Joe Lynch, recently dethroned bantamweight champion, have come to a parting of the ways, according to inside rumors.

Mead and Lynch had a misunderstanding with Abe Goldstein and the standing before the latter's losing breach is said to have widened considerably of late.

Simmons Hits Hard Despite Faulty Stance

Philadelphia—Does a correct stance mean much in baseball?

In golf it means almost everything. A majority of the great players have almost exactly the same stance.

It is regarded as essential, if the golfer is to get distance and accuracy to his drives. Only a very few unorthodox golfers achieve fame.

Apparently it is different in baseball. Connie Mack says that in Al Simmons he has picked up a youngster who is a good hitter now, and certain to develop into a great one.

This may prove true. Mack should know a batter. Yet it is questionable if ever a player came to the big show with a poorer style at the plate.

His stance is all wrong, according to baseball theory. He pulls away on actually every ball, yet seems to be able to hit them hard and to all fields.

SPEAKER MAY USE TRIO OF CATCHERS TO REACH RESULTS

Cleveland Manager May Be Forced to Use Triple Shift Behind Bat

Cleveland — Having traded Steve O'Neill along with Bill Wambach to the Red Sox, the Cleveland club now finds itself in an uncertain situation in regard to catchers.

Myatt, who came up from the American Association last year, is not a genuinely big league performer. What he lacks chiefly is mental poise. Young Sewell is still a year or so away.

The veteran Walters, who figured in the Red Sox exchange, has seen his most glorious period.

Speaker, before the season ends, probably will be compelled to use a triple shift behind the bat.

Myatt may be used against right-handed pitchers because of his hitting ability, since the Indians intend to depend mainly on base hits for victories this year.

Sewell may handle the old pitchers who may be counted on to do their own pitching without advice from the catcher.

Walters, with his knowledge of enemy batters and tricks of the sport, may catch the youngsters.

Speaker himself does not know how he finally will assign his catchers. He has hopes that Young Sewell will develop fast enough to merit the first-string catcher's job.

Speaker will not be able to tell to what extent he can count on Sewell as a regular until he has watched him under fire for some length of time.

So far the kid catcher has performed creditably.

SEATTLE CATCHER HURT BY RIVAL PLAYER'S BAT

By Associated Press

Appleton Cops Third Place In Volleyball Meet At Fond du Lac

Racine Again Wins Championship While Milwaukee Team Takes Second Place in Saturday's Tilts.

Appleton Saturday took third place in the state volleyball tournament held in Fond du Lac under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., while Racine again won the championship and Milwaukee took second. The final match of the evening between Racine and Milwaukee was the most exciting of the program. Racine started at the last, and when the smoke cleared away was leading, 18 to 14.

Sophomores Take Lead In Lawrence Carnival

Opening Track and Field Meet Brings Out New Freshman Stars in Weights, Dashes and Pole Vault.

First place in the Lawrence interschool track and field meet which opened the season Saturday was won by the sophomores, who piled up a total of 43½ points. The freshmen and seniors were tied for second place with 38 points, while the juniors lagged behind with 6½.

Despite the wet, heavy grounds, several very good showings were made. Four freshmen looked especially promising. Hippke threw the shot 36 feet, 7½ inches, Dawley looked like a comer in the hurdles. McConnell showed up like a veteran in the pole vault, and Nobles gave promise of future greatness in the dashes. Starr, a sophomore who is making his first trials as a trackman, took first in the 100-yard dash which he made in 10½ seconds.
